

Please keep ownership rules in place to limit media consolidation. The airwaves are supposed to belong to the public. We need diversity and small radio/tv/newspapers to help us to stay informed about issues and to have a functioning democracy.

In addition, in a time of terrorism, we are already seeing problems with media consolidation; many towns do not have a local radio station that can get information out to residents in case of an emergency.

It's a very bad idea to allow even more consolidation of the media and public airwaves by a few owners.
